“Integrating Spirituality and Psychotherapy in Addiction Treatment”

Presented By: William Hale, Ph.D., LICDC

Participants will:

- Examine the fundamental roles that counseling and psychotherapy play in facilitation of clients’ development of, or reconnection with, spiritual understanding and practice, whatever form it may take.
- Learn about the neuroplasticity of the brain and how spiritual practices can create new neural connections which are geared toward attitudes and behaviors which are conducive to sustained and successful recovery.
- Explore various spiritual practices commonly used in addiction recovery, which can be inclusive or exclusive of religious traditions, and learn how they can be facilitated in addictions counseling.
